

Dr Karen Barker

Karen Barker leads project management at the Australia India Institute, with a focus on government projects supporting the bilateral education relationship.

She also leads the operations team that supports the Institute's work, including research and engagement activities. Karen has over a decade of experience in international education and, until 2017, led the International Partnerships team, part of the University of Melbourne's International Relations Office.

Karen has a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws from the Australian National University. She obtained a Bachelor of Letters, Masters in Tertiary Education Management and a PhD from the University of Melbourne.