

Brigid Freeman

Brigid Freeman's research has been on the higher education policy settings and humanities capabilities in Asia (with Aii, the Australian Academy of the Humanities), science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) policy, strategy and programs globally, through the Centre for the Study of Higher Education for the Australian Council of Learned Academies (ACOLA) and the Office of the Chief Scientist, and Australian, Chinese and Indian diaspora.