

Briena Barrett

Briena is the Institute's Website and Communications Coordinator.

She began her 10-year career as a broadcast journalist, telling stories in both regional and metropolitan newsrooms across Australia. In more recent years she has supported the communication and media activities of various university and government programs.

Briena recently relocated to New Delhi and is looking forward to making local connections and expanding her knowledge of India and its growing relationship with Australia.